Grading Scale

Score	Grade	Performance Level
90–100	A+	Outstanding
80–89	A	Excellent
70–79	B	Good
60–69	C	Satisfactory
50–59	D	Needs Improvement
Below 50	F	Unsatisfactory

Reviewer Feedback

Strengths

Strong dataset size and a reasonably complete ML workflow with data inspection, EDA, outlier analysis, preprocessing pipeline, three model types, hyperparameter tuning, evaluation and feature-importance analysis. The use of a pipeline and RandomizedSearchCV is a good technical choice.

Areas for Improvement

The extremely imbalanced target (98.35% non-converted) requires deeper evaluation beyond the listed metrics, especially PR-based analysis. Outlier removal needs stronger justification, and the availability of features such as LeadStatus and PaymentHistory before prediction should be clearly established. Feature-selection decisions are not sufficiently evidenced, while business interpretation and limitations are largely missing.

Reviewer Feedback

Good technical effort with a large dataset and more advanced model-selection workflow than a basic Week 2 submission. However, the analysis needs stronger attention to class imbalance, feature availability/leakage, and the business meaning of the predictions. Clearly document limitations and justify the final feature set and preprocessing decisions.

Evaluation Note

This report is a performance record for the stated review period. Scores are based on the work submitted and observed during the internship. Final internship performance may reflect multiple review periods.
